* An application to help manage your coin collection online. * You can filter the coins by country and coin type. * You can obtain detailed information about the selected coin. * You can swap coins with other users. * Coin rating, Bid, Mint and Alley condition are also displayed. * Selecting a coin from the results will display a message if the coin is not found. * In the end of the description, you will obtain some advices on how to use the coins, and some coin properties. In my opinion, its homepage is cluttered and it should have only one or two buttons: one to search for a coin or coins, and one to display the table of the found coins with the description and the exchanged emails. I'd rather see a table than pictures, and more colors: one color of the coin for the viewer, and another one for the actual coin, and no picture of the camera on the viewfinder. In short: its main functions are all present, even if they are well hidden. Pros:- Look nice - Good to use - Nice interface - Good description of the coin - Good advice at the end - Links to coin sites Cons:- too many buttons in a small space - it's cluttered - it's ugly - I prefer a table with the coin info and list of coins from the site - the coin description is too long - no video I have used this with great success. Used it to find a Japanese coin and now I am looking for more. It's a great tool. This is the only Windows utility I've found that allows me to virtually mark a coin as purchased. But there is a slight issue. You can't see who else has a coin. This does not bother me too much but it is surprising that you cannot view others who are trying to locate the coin you are looking for. I would like to be able to see all who are trying to find a specific coin. I don't go back and forth so my view is not too important. I use this app to visually track the progress of several antique coin purchases that are made from the same source, so I can always compare the actual condition of a coin purchased at any time. One problem: Because several coin purchases are made at the same time, the records often cross one another, so I sometimes can't tell which coin the seller entered into the system. I
