List Computer Hardware Information Software - is a handy tool which was designed specifically to help you see details regarding all your computer's hardware components, and save the results as a TXT or HTML file. The desktop tweaking wizard comes in handy if you need to fine-tune your desktop, Windows desktop or Windows server operating system to make it look more professional. And the most attractive thing about this software is its attractive user interface. The interface is very simple and easy to use, it has sleek and clean design. Download List Computer Hardware Information Software Description List Computer Hardware Information Software detects and reveals detailed information regarding your processor, keyboard, disk drive, mother board, bus, port connectors, sound device, network adapter and monitor, and so on. The device list can be saved to the hard drive as a TXT or HTML file, with or without device properties, for safekeeping or further analysis, at a later date. Nevertheless, you should know this function is disabled in the demo version. Well-organized Help contents are provided online. It does not tamper with your computer's performance, as it requires minimal CPU and memory, even when collecting all the data necessary. To sum up, List Computer Hardware Information Software is a pretty efficient piece of software, which enables you to view information pertaining to all hardware drives. It has a pretty good response time, a user-friendly interface and high level of details.Sometime back, the NDA brought me news that they had placed an offer on two very different table-tennis tables. The background is that they put the two tables together in a couple of months ago and then put them up for sale. I know they were interested in one of them because they came to the I.F.TA showing of such a table last year. I don't know which table they are, but as soon as I find out, I'll let you know. Richard, What brand is it and what shape is it? I'm familiar with the Tabley, and these look a bit smaller and less ornate than the Tabley. Would appreciate any details you can find out for us. Johannes, Yes it is a table, and yes it is the Tabley. That doesn't quite describe it, but the Tabley is the only one I have seen in a city center here in my home country. In this case, it is a smallish 4 person table with a smaller table top than the original version (much smaller than the 6 person version). The height of the table top is approx. 1 meter, which, compared to the average size of the other tables here, is somewhat small. It seems to be something between the 6 person Tabley and the 2 person Tabley. I've searched the net for this table, but couldn't find much about it. I've not been inside
