ImageDecoder.Raw: This plugin is a simple decode/plugin that allows the application to read images into a memory stream. The plugin is very simple and has little to no configuration. The plugin decodes the raw data into a jpeg stream and prepends the two bytes indicating the length of the image and the number of the bit for each pixel. ImageDecoder.Raw Plugin Description: This plugin is a simple decode/plugin that allows the application to read images into a memory stream. The plugin is very simple and has little to no configuration. The plugin decodes the raw data into a jpeg stream and prepends the two bytes indicating the length of the image and the number of the bit for each pixel. Lets look at an example (8-bit JPEG with JFIF) using a Blackbird camera: 1) Open the Blackbird program and launch the little camera app 2) Open the Raw Decode window and load the raw image file 3) The raw image should be decoded to a series of 8-bit buffers (from the camera) 4) The processed image can then be saved or used in another application * you can use a variety of processing plugins (like Photoshop Plugins or Pixelmator plugins) by simply placing the decode plugin in the plugins folder. # Example: RawLoader.exe -p myapplication.exe -e -r 8 -t 4 -b 83070 -s 1280 --bpp 8 --resx=128 --resy=128 my.raw.jpg # Example: RawLoader.exe -p myapplication.exe -e -r 8 -t 4 -b 83070 -s 1280 --bpp 8 --resx=128 --resy=128 my_image.jpg # Example: 09e8f5149f

If I want to help a story, I want to see the story score and comment count. It would be a turn off to someone working on a slow internet connection. ====== motters I suspect it's something to do with the fact that more votes and comments are shown after more time has elapsed - i.e. the longer you are on the site the more of it you see - because of the time decay of average daily HN page views. ~~~ mechanical_fish _The longer you are on the site the more of it you see_ I don't buy that. There's something else going on here. ~~~ motters The way I interpret it is that the site is trying to encourage people to spend more time on the site. ------ patio11 The color-coding on votes encourages me to sit and read every single one. Which is obnoxious. I wish these were the first word in all titles: "If you want to help this hacker, please do." ~~~ hugh3 I wish the title was "We're not allowed to show you the score of the stories in comments section.
