The present invention relates to antenna systems, and more specifically, to an antenna system for a portable device. Portable wireless communication devices are ubiquitous. In many instances, it is advantageous to minimize the size of these devices while ensuring that communication signals are transmitted and received at an acceptable rate and level of quality. A typical cellular telephone may include a physical antenna mounted to a housing. The physical antenna typically includes a first conductor, such as a dipole or a monopole, and a second conductor, such as a ground. The antenna may be supported by an external portion of the housing, with the first and second conductors positioned on a front surface of the housing and oriented to transmit and receive communication signals. However, this configuration may cause the housing to appear larger in certain dimensions and, consequently, reduces the attractiveness of the cellular telephone. While typical cellular telephones generally operate satisfactorily for their intended purpose, there exists a need in the art for an antenna system for a portable wireless communication device that is more effective in transmitting and receiving communication signals.

Q: Find and replace functionality in a batch file I've been doing some Google searches to try and come up with a solution for this but it seems like it should be really simple. What I'm looking to do is to be able to search for a string, then replace it with a different string. I know I can do this in a text editor, however, that's not possible. For example, I have this script, which should take a line of input that is the URL for the local version of a file, and then replace "file.txt" with "file.zip":

@echo off
setlocal
set searchString=%1
set replaceString=%2
for /F "tokens=1* delims= " %%i in (input.txt) do ( findstr /V /G:%searchString% /C:"%i" "%j" >nul 2>&1 && ( set line=%%j set /P line= echo(%%line:%searchString%=%replaceString%% ) ) endlocal pause
Then I can run this file like so: C:\Scripts>zip.bat C:\temp\input.txt C:\temp\output

What's New In AutoCAD?

Markup Assist: Accurately position and align graphics, as part of the AutoCAD drawing process. 2D Configuration Tools: Make simple edits to a drawing's configuration directly in the 2D Properties palette, without the need to open the drawing. You can configure several 2D configurations by using the Options commands on the Configuration tab of the ribbon. (video: 11:40 min.) More Generics and Scenarios: The System Environment dialog box has expanded options for controlling the time and place when AutoCAD runs. (video: 0:32 min.) Flat File Commands: Add a new feature to the AutoLISP Flat File parser, so you can open a flat file and manipulate the data contained in it. (video: 1:20 min.) Zooming: Automatically place a zoom marker to support zooming with the mouse. (video: 1:00 min.) Navigation: Automatically show the drawing's hidden elements and find the starting point of a selection after the drawing is opened. (video: 0:33 min.) Organizer: Organize your drawings with automatic layout, including the layout of templates. Forms and Reports: Create complex reports with almost no programming. HTML Output for Publisher: Generate HTML output for the Microsoft Publisher Application in both print-ready and non-print-ready format. Web Reports and Prototypes: Generate custom HTML reports, or interactive web prototypes that look like paper prototypes. Web Style Guides: Save your style guide files as HTML and publish them on the web. Multi-Language: Support new languages, including Khmer and Hausa, for Arabic-speaking users. Personalization: Add your logo, and let users customize your interface. Artboards and Tabs: Present information in a new way. Artboards, also known as Tabs, replace the ribbon and display only the information you need. Have a look at the new Artboards. You can add new artboards on a per-document basis. Help and Options: Include more language, and create quick reference cards. Use the Options and Help menus to customize your experience.
