I've just written a JQuery based on a text field that displays a simple popover when the field gets focused. It works well. However, when I click elsewhere in the document, the popup appears at the top-left of the viewport. I'm looking for a way to get the exact position of this popover in my input field (respecting changes to the viewport size). Is there any way to achieve this?

```
var initPopover = function () {
  $('input').popover({ html: true, placement: 'top', content: '', trigger: 'focus', animation: true, container: 'body', animationIn: 'pop', animationOut: 'fadeOut' });
$(document).ready(function() {
  initPopover();
  $('.search-field').focus(function(){ initPopover(); });
});
