Linux-r2r2r.If the end of the world has come and gone, why doesn't the world have a plan to rebuild it? The Vatican is working on a plan to "restore and build" the city of Rome after a 6.3 magnitude earthquake left the city in ruins and killed at least 322 people, according to the BBC. Pope Benedict XVI is working on a plan with the Italian government and city engineers to "better than ever" rebuild the city. "We wish to move towards a renewed Rome that is more humane and transparent, capable of tackling the problems of today as well as building a new vision for the future," he said, according to the BBC. The plans will be discussed on Monday by a group that includes government ministers, professional associations and religious leaders. We want to move towards a renewed Rome that is more humane and transparent, capable of tackling the problems of today as well as building a new vision for the future. Pope Benedict XVI "This will be the greatest civil engineering project in the history of the city," said city engineer Enzo Perotti. "We will rebuild the city on higher ground than before and better than before, in a balanced way. We want to create harmonious spaces that are ecologically sustainable, without taking away from the existing buildings and the integrity of the city." The most ambitious plan so far is a project to build over the river to the north of the city, which will cost about $13 billion to $16 billion, the BBC said. But other ideas are also being drawn up, including the proposed rebuilding of the Coliseum and a domed stadium on top
