The launch of FIFA 22 confirms that motion-controlled gameplay has come of age. The recent FIFA 19 demo featured player movements that even today look realistic and lifelike. This year's launch also introduces touch gameplay, which is the next step in the evolution of artificial intelligence. This demo showcased the reintroduction of touch control, which adds authenticity to a player's ability to manoeuvre and perform moves using foot, hand and head gestures. As more and more players are using this methodology, it's clear that artificial intelligence has gone from "controls player around the touchline on pitches that look like real life" to "control player around the touchline on pitches that look like real life." This year's launch also introduces AI-controlled substitutions. Recently, EA Sports made great strides towards AI-controlled substitutions by introducing the ability to substitute players manually and within the AI. However, the inclusion of an AI-controlled substitution was clearly something that the players wished to have incorporated. The inclusion of this as an all-new feature, after the recent release of "Pre-match Draft," allows players to experience a more authentic sense of player involvement. Another key addition to the game is the introduction of EA SPORTS VOLTA, a feature that will allow players to purchase licensed on-pitch team-wear and equipment and use that kit in the game. Players will also have the ability to use the reworked transfer system in order to 'franchise' their squad. The game includes a renovated Career Mode, which will now offer post-career insight into what happens next for your career. If you are a rising star, the game will keep you engaged with regular footage and interviews for years after your career has finished. The game also features new Ultimate Team enhancements that will allow players to unlock additional content. The game will be available on PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC, on Sept. 28. EA SPORTS VOLTA Players will have the ability to purchase licensed on-pitch team-wear and equipment and use that kit in the game. In addition, the game includes new enhancements to the Transfer Market and Ultimate Team, which will allow players to 'franchise' their squad. Powered by Football™, EA SPORTS FIFA 22 brings the game even closer to the real thing with fundamental gameplay advances and a new season of innovation across every mode. FIFA 22 features a new Real Vision Engine, gameplay innovations like mastery dribbling, an all-new A.I., new playing styles and more. FIFA 22 lets you take on the best and brightest on the pitch with new camera angles, improved broadcast graphics, crowd roar, new fans, and commentary. Features Real Vision Engine. Melding the most advanced animation, physics, and match physics of EA SPORTS FIFA 19 with an all-new Real Vision Engine, the goal for FIFA 22 is to create the most realistic and immersive player experience ever in a soccer game. Artistic Style. Player models were updated to reflect current trends in the sport, such as more fluid and flexible animations and tighter range of motion. New Goalkeeper Animation, Face and Wrinkles added to Goalkeeper models. Improved running animations and player clothing. Enhanced ball physics and graphical presentation of the ball. Improved matchday presentation. Improved broadcast presentation. All new “English Premier League” broadcast presentation. New stadium presentation to better reflect the unique atmosphere of the English Premier League. Improved Play. The “intuitive” mode in FIFA has been replaced with a brand-new “mastery dribbling” mode. In this mode, the ball reacts and changes its behavior according to what you do. When it comes to goalkeeping, keepers are also now able to make surprising, unrehearsed saves, and a new “fight or flight” option will allow you to make better decisions about which direction to go. New Agent AI. The new AI in FIFA is much more intelligent, remembering who you play with, which formation you prefer, and when you like to attack. The new AI can also better anticipate passes and runs, as well as anticipate when to apply pressure to strikers. Fluid Movement. Some players in FIFA are now more fluid. This means they move more naturally in and out of the way of other players. When a player has both feet on the ground, he is also now more likely to run through a gap instead of just doing a short hop and ignoring or covering it up later on. First Touch Control. The touch decisions you make in possession have been reduced in an effort to keep you in bc9d6d6daa
