Blagden said "abrogation" - or reversing projects without compensation to affected parties - is something which would be decided on a case-by-case basis. There are currently four large pipeline projects being built in the country - the Leap Frog, Strike Scoop, Southern Corridor and Matapos. "I don't think in this day and age it's that time to be doing any abrogation or any of that," said Blagden. "I think with the exception of the Peperi (Power Station) resource consent and the Matapos, even those were very positive and very straightforward, so it'll be really difficult for anything else to get through." The incidence of radiation induced prostate cancer (RPC) has increased since the introduction of brachytherapy. It is the most likely cause of late radiation-induced complications. We report the results of a study of 60 patients who presented with RPC after radical radiotherapy (between 1991 and 2003). A descriptive study was performed of 60 patients, including 40 men and 20 women, with a mean age of 60 years. The median dose delivered was 64 Gy (46-84 Gy). Fourteen patients had been irradiated alone, 33 with a boost (28.3%), 28 with external beam radiotherapy (23%), and 5 with a combination (4.1%). Within 3 years, 11 patients (18.3%) had symptomatic recurrence requiring treatment, including 1 patient (1.7%) with brachytherapy, 9 (15%) with irradiation, and 1 (1.7%) treated with androgen deprivation. The incidence of symptomatic recurrence was higher in patients irradiated with a dose > 60 Gy (33.3% vs 12.4%; P 60 Gy. This risk was greater in patients treated with androgen deprivation.
