I am trying to figure out the logic behind the directory structure in the zip file. I have seen How do you know which folder should you create each subfolder in? and I am having hard time understanding the logic behind this based on the number of directories/files in the zip file. For instance: -root -root --series-1 --series-2 --series-3 ...etc I am assuming that the logic (directory structure) is the same as the hierachical structure of the zip file, but it seems not to be. Here is the script I used to get this zip file. for f in $(ls .zip | grep -v \.zip | grep -v \.7z) ; do p=`echo $f | grep.zip` if [-z "$p"] ; then echo no directory in file name else p1=`echo $p | sed's/\.zip$//'` echo Creating directory../../Series-$p1.zip fi done unzip -t../../Series.zip Can someone please explain why this directory structure is the way it is? A: So the directories are created based on the filenames inside the zip archive? Based on this, we need to know whether it is a hierarchical archive or not. If it's hierarchical, we have a (base) directory tree where each directory contains one or more zip files. A zip archive is hierarchical when it's filenames follow the naming scheme explained in PKWARE's description of the zip format. For instance the structure is more or less as follows: Directory1 Archive1.zip Archive2.zip Directory2 Archive3.zip Archive4.zip ... DirectoryN Archive1N.zip Archive2N.zip ... This structure can be visualized as follows: Directory1 |__ Archive1.zip Directory2 |__ Archive2.zip |__ Archive3.zip ...

What's wrong with my code? ko.applyBindings({ data: db.Rows.toArray() }); ko.observable({ count: 0 }); console.log(this.count); As a result I'm only seeing 0 and not 1. A: The count observable is defined inside the data context, so it's not accessible outside that context. Add it to the viewModel: ViewModel: function ViewModel() { var self = this; self.data = ko.observable(db.Rows
