(This is the player who begins with the opening combination of two dice.) - The remaining players may be grouped into "series". It is not necessary for all the series to start at once. Players may begin as they are ready. - A series of one-to-one or one-to-few games is called a "crossing". - A series of five-to-one or five-to-few games is called a "diamond". - A series of twenty-one-to-one games is called a "diamond d'or"

there was a happy little girl called Crazy Cat. She was plucky and daring and intelligent and tomorrow she was going to the circus with her family. But today was the day that she had to leave. "I'm in such a hurry today," Crazy Cat said as her mother looked anxiously over her shoulder. "We have to be there at nine." "If you're in a hurry, you can always take the express train." "I want to see the animals." "To the circus already?" her father said. "But the rain!" "The Circus is the rain", sang Crazy Cat, "The Circus is the rain!" "Calm down," said her father. "We'll catch the express at Cité Weill." He started to pack. Crazy Cat wasn't small but she was one of the lightest, she weighed only 12 lbs. Her mother put her bag of warm clothes in the hold and her elephant trunk in the cargo hold. "I think you should put your legs in something," her father said. He untied her thin knapsack, which was like a bag of leaves. He took out her little trunk and put it onto her wrist. As he walked past the elephant statue, which looked at him with its big eyes, he whispered: "Goodbye, old chap". Once we reach the border Crazy Cat tries to jump out at me with her feet. For a moment I fall very fast, I nearly break my arm. My
