Actually, it isn't the first time it's been a legal matter, either. A woman had a similar claim for name change in 2008 and lost. There's a lot to say about the legalities and philosophy behind name change, but that's a separate discussion. The list is in order of request, with the most recent at the top. The oldest item is for a candidate who requested a name change in August of 2008. I expect that there will be a few more requests before January, because they will have to wait until then to find out if they have been changed. That said, a handful of candidates may keep asking until they are allowed, and it would be even more easier for the candidates if they all tried to have their name changed on January 1, 2013. 87) Ale-Kasm (Book 88, Number 593 of The Holy Quran) - "A literal reading of this passage by the Muslim Sohar Âlof the hadith isÂ.
