Q: Exception in C# UWP I'm trying to make my program work but I'm getting this kind of error: Method invocation failed because [System.Object[]] does not contain a method named 'op_Inequality' When I try to compare the numbers in the for-loop. I've checked the program and it gives me the right numbers. The error occurs when I run the button function. Error in:

```
if (Numbers[i] != Numbers[i - 1]) {
    Console.WriteLine(Numbers[i]);
    Console.WriteLine(Numbers[i - 1]);
    Console.WriteLine(Numbers[i - 2]); }
Thanks for your help.

I know it sounds hard to understand but you just have to understand it. Milk and cream must be processed to keep down the bacterial risk. Dairy also has a high protein content that bacteria love, so milk and cream must be pasteurized.

Once the cheese is made, it is packed into molds to hasten the aging process. When the cheese is opened, the bacteria die, which stops the fermentation process and allows it to become safe to eat.
