A: i have solved this ImageUrl = "~/App_Data/PrayerMangal/PrayerMangal.jpg"; /// /// Click handler for PrayMangal button /// /// The source of the event /// The instance containing the event data void Image_Click(object sender, MouseButtonEventArgs e) { Page current = HttpContext.Current.CurrentHandler as Page; current.Response.Redirect(ImageUrl); } Thursday, September 14, 2005 I'm going to catch you 12:05 pm I've got a couple of minutes to spare. Not a lot, but enough to write a post about something (frankly, I was writing a lot of posts but Blogger ate them all). I'm getting ready to go to the mall. Not to shop, just to see what's new, or what's happening. On the way there, I'm going to play some free horse racing at Hollywood Casino. That's what I call a no-brainer. I'm almost certain to lose a few bucks there, but who cares? I'm also going to see if I can catch one of the major league baseball games that's been so badly slanted to the home team, I've not even bother to watch them. To those of you who don't know about this kind of stuff, baseball is play by play radio, but you can listen in on the radio, but you can't see or hear anything. The only thing you can see is the action on the television. I'm not a big baseball fan, but I do like free time, and I'm doing these two activities to fill it.Q: Swift Fetching JSON from a Webservice (IOS) I am new to ios swift. The doors at this November 14 meeting of the Design Review, held at the Kimpton Hotel Fig in downtown LA, will be decorated with these wreaths, available in four styles in six colors, giving each tree its own holiday look. The collection combines a rustic style with warm and cool hues of red, green, olive, gold and blue to create elaborate and warm designs for the holiday season. The four-piece collection will be sold at retail next year. Here's the video from the meeting: I shot the video and a few close-up photos of the wreaths,
