I've recently begun using StackExchange and I've found the question collection to be pretty useful. I was wondering how StackExchange was able to automagically store answers for most of my questions by automatically syncing a users "Answers" for the questions my account has asked in the past. My question is: How would I be able to do the same? Please note: I am not asking how to make the application do this, I would have no idea how to make something like this work. I am wondering how StackExchange does it on their end. For what its worth, I asked this question before I knew StackExchange to exist. A: With the exception of answers to questions you've posted on Stack Overflow, I don't believe you can. It may not be out of the question to want to have users'repatch' their own previously posted answers (without marking them
