Kendra Lehnhardt was left inside the Burlington Coat Factory by her six-year-old son on Saturday, January 4th. She took her son to tell the store manager what he was being left inside and to get him a phone so he could call for help. The mother then took the manager of the store to the dressing room and asked him to check on the boy. When he opened the door to the dressing room, he found the child crying and locked in there with no way to get out. Officers from Louisville Metropolitan Police Department were called to the scene and found the little boy inside the store and in good health. According to a police report, the mother told officers she left her son inside on purpose because she was mad at him. Lehnhardt faces charges of child endangering.Cómo Wardbrack comenzó su viaje en diseño de página web Nombre de la empresa Best Stuff Descripción general We want 6d1f23a050
