Universal GDK 2.3.3[(i)Dedication to the memory of Professor Hermann Kilian.] The author was intended to dedicate this work to his teacher, Dr. Hermann Kilian (1882-1960), who was his masters advisor in his studies as a medical student. In fact, he only found out that his manuscripts would have been an allusion to his teacher in the person of Professor Kilian, several months after the publication of the second volume, because an erratum had to be inserted in the volumes already published, including the one now at hand. However, he was so concerned that he would have been deprived of the inestimable pleasure of publishing a work on his teacher's name, that he didn't even aspire to publish his work. Unfortunately, Prof. Kilian died in 1961, and the author did not have the chance to thank him personally, although he had his books until the very end of his life. (ii)Scientific Involvement The author worked for many years in the Department of Pathology and Anatomy, Department of Pathology and Histology, and Department of Anatomy at the University of Bonn. He was particularly involved c6a93da74d
